

Thematic Meeting of the French Economic Association (AFSE)

« Economic Policies in the Aftermath of Financial Crisis »

Université d'Orléans, June 3-4 2010

CALL FOR PAPERS

This thematic meeting, co-organized by AFSE (Association Française de Science Economique) and Laboratoire d'Economie d'Orléans (LEO), will take place at the University of Orléans, June 3-4 2010.

It is commonly admitted that the on-going crisis takes its roots in a number of dysfunctions, either microeconomic or macroeconomic : financial regulation failures, unbalanced capital and trade flows in international markets, distributional conflicts between production factors and within wage earners, dwindling natural resources, etc. A satisfactory management of the current crisis calls therefore for a variety of policy responses including traditional Keynesian policies but also more innovative policies for a crisis that goes beyond a temporary demand shock around an unchanged long-term trend.

This meeting aims at reviewing such policy responses to a crisis which deals with business cycles and structural issues. Here are a suggested list of themes that the meeting may cover :

- Fiscal policy and public debt sustainability
- Monetary policy : between deflationary risks and inflationary pressures
- Rebuilding financial regulation
- The future of the international monetary system
- What to expect from structural policies ?
- International coordination of economic policies : scope, methods and effects
- A new growth regime ?

Completed papers in English or French and an abstract may be submitted electronically from the 4th of January 2010 to the 14th of March 2010 in a pdf or doc format on the web server <http://www.univ-orleans.fr/leo/afse2010>. Papers submitted under any other format and outside the web server will be disregarded. The selection committee, coordinated by Alexis Direr, Jean-Paul Pollin, and Patrick Villieu will convey the final decision to the authors by email in mid-April 2010.